

Thomas Heuer
CEO, desertfoods

For more than 20 years, Thomas Heuer held executive corporate banking roles in major banks. He then spent 14 years with an independent IT service provider and software manufacturer - firstly as CFO and then as co-owner following an MBI in 2009 - which focused on B2B solutions for the energy and water industries, and which had 450 employees.. Due to an unresolved succession policy of the founder and majority shareholder, the business was sold to an overseas listed company at the end of 2016. Following his departure from the company, Thomas Heuer dedicated himself to following his passion for the African continent. His business experience and the knowledge gained from many years traveling to the southern Sub-Sahara, coupled with a great affinity for (Financial First) Impact projects, laid the foundations for the business project that is Desertfoods International. And it is this that he, together with leading scientists, is currently implementing in his role as Co-Founder & CEO.
